Module Aims

This module aims to enable you to: i) benefit from studying and living abroad; ii) develop intercultural awareness and competence through reflection on the experience; iii) enhance your personal development allowing you the scope to transfer the skills acquired to both academic work and future vocational work; iv) widen your knowledge and understanding, and embrace different academic approaches in one or more of your degree subject areas by studying appropriate modules; v) where appropriate, enhance your language skills and develop strategies for more effective language learning.

Outline Syllabus

There is no defined syllabus. The year abroad is voluntary and your diet of study will be chosen to be relevant to your degree studies and agreed with the Department before departure.

Module Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this module, students will be able to...

- 1 a) demonstrate understanding of the working of a university in another country and of different academic approaches to the study of economics and related subjects; demonstrate intercultural awareness;
- 2 a) gain knowledge and understanding within one or more of your degree subject areas by following appropriate modules in the partner institution.
- 3 a) show an ability to reflect critically on the independent learning and self-management that living and studying abroad requires.

Learning, Teaching and Assessment Strategy

Study abroad years are voluntary and the diet of modules chosen will be relevant to your University of Bradford degree and agreed with the Department. Your study abroad experience is to be taken in addition to the 360 credits you study towards your economics degree. The range and variety of teaching and learning methods will depend on your diet of study at the partner institution. In addition to your study and assessment at the partner institution, you will keep a reflective log or journal of your learning and cultural experiences. Upon return to the University of Bradford you will submit this for assessment and make a reflective and critical oral presentation (using PowerPoint), in English, about the period of living and studying abroad to current students during the first semester after the period abroad. During your year abroad a tutor from the University of Bradford will remain in contact with you and can provide feedback on your journal. Assessment will be on a pass/fail basis.
