Module Aims
This module provides the opportunity for learners to demonstrate the ability to diagnose and investigate a live, complex business issue from an HR perspective, to locate the work within the body of contemporary theoretical and practice knowledge, to collect and analyse data, to derive supportable conclusions and to make practical and actionable recommendations for change, improvement or enhancement of current practice. It requires reflection on the implications for professional practice from an ethical, professional and continuous professional development standpoint.

Outline Syllabus
1. Identify and justify a business issue that is of strategic relevance to the organisation. 2. Critically analyse and discuss existing literature, contemporary HR policy and practice relevant to the chosen issue; 3. Compare and contrast the relative merits of different research methods and their relevance to different situations, referring to philosophical and methodological literature. 4. Undertake a systematic analysis of quantitative and/or qualitative information and present the results in a clear and consistent format. 5. Draw realistic and appropriate conclusions and make recommendations based on costed options. 6. Develop and present an applied dissertation to include the above elements. 7. Write a reflective account of what has been learned during the project and how this can be applied in the future.
