Module Aims
To stimulate an understanding of the fundamental principles of simple and complex lens types and knowledge of their performance. To enable students to analyse their suitability in a variety of situations.

Outline Syllabus
Lens form. Surface power. Transposition. Toric lenses. Focimeter. Ophthalmic prisms. Prismatic effect of ophthalmic lenses. Spectacle frame description. Frame and facial measurements. Spectacle lens material. Lens surfacing. Lens aberrations. Bifocal, trifocal and multifocal lenses. Thick lens theory as applied to moderate to high power prescriptions. Best form lens theory. Near vision effectivity in spherical and astigmatic prescriptions. Trial case lenses. Aspheric lenses. Tints and coatings. Frame materials.

Learning Outcomes
Outcome Number	Description
01	Describe the form and optical characteristics of simple and advanced types of ophthalmic lenses, including multifocal and aspheric lenses.
02	Analyse patient requirements in ophthalmic lens dispensing and apply knowledge of ophthalmic lenses to select appropriate appliances.
03	Describe the information gained from measurements of optical appliances.
04	Refine ability to take accurate and repeatable measurements and record these in a clear and concise manner.
05	Demonstrate an ability to handle data accurately and confidently.
06	Refine problem-solving skills.

Learning, Teaching and Assessment Strategy
This module is based on a series of pre-recorded online presentations, supported by online seminars and practical sessions.

Mode of Assessment
Type	Method	Description	Weighting
Summative	Examination - Closed Book	Closed book unseen written exam (2 Hrs)	70%
Summative	Examination - practical/laboratory	Practical assessment week 24 (1 Hr)	30%
